Comments:

The market today again showed strong demand for most classes of calves/yearlings. Packer cows and bulls were a little softer today as most packing plants still had cows standing due to the long holiday weekend. The aftermath of Hurricane Harvey as well as the wildfires in Montana very well could affect the livestock industry to some degree. It is still too early to tell, but might be worth monitoring in the weeks ahead.

Next week we will have the Baird Beefmaster calves coming to market. These heifer calves will be perfect to turn out on winter grazing this fall to develop a top notch, front pasture set of replacement females. You absolutely won't want to miss this set. Call Derek at 254/386-6852 for more info and come see us next Tuesday!
